ANXIOUS TO HEAR FROM DETECTIVE

Judge Jackson Says He Will Appoint
Special Prosecutor if Abels the Investigator Will Return.

FIRM OFFERS TO HELP FREE

Attorney Says he Told Dr. Winters he Might be Strung to Pole if People Thought he Knew.

(By United Press.)

Newcastle Ind., June 2.—Circuit Judge Jackson this afternoon said that if R. H. Abels detective who worked on the Catherine Winters case would return and give evidence against Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Winters and W. R. Cooper to support the charges of conspiring to murder and burn the girl's body he would appoint a special prosecutor. He appeared very anxious to hear from Abels. It is evident that the case will be pushed rigorously.

The firm of Evans and Dewitt who were in charge of the former grand jury that investigated the case today offered to assist the prosecution free of charge.

An attorney said today that threats had been made against the life of Dr. Winters.

"I told Winters," he said "the people think you know where your daughter is. If it becomes known that you do know, you will be strung to a telegraph pole."

He said Winters made no reply.

Detective Abels got the case late yesterday afternoon. He had an altercation with Prosecutor W. R. Myers, each accusing the other of a case of "cold feet." Abels and Myers engaged in several tilts during the day.

The quarrel started when Myers refused to file charges of murder in the first degree. Abel accused Myers of having "cold feet" and allowing politics to enter into the case.

"Politics and cowardice have ruined my case," Abel declared. "I had records which contained a report of a conversation between Mrs. Winters and her mother in the dining room of their own home. I had had much other evidence which has not been made public but which was told Myers. I will do nothing more until a special Prosecuting Attorney is appointed."

Abel went to Indianapolis, taking with him his magnifying glass, his "Sherlock Holmes" hat and some records from a telephone device. As he left he said that no prosecution could be made without the evidence contained in the telephone report.

When the word came that Abel had withdrawn from the case Dr. Winters wanted to prevent the detective from leaving town. He called his attorney, George Barnard and asked that affidavits charging the detective with perjury be filed. The affidavits were prepared but at a conference between Mrs. Winters, the attorney and Dr. Winters, it was decided to drop the matter.

Impeachment proceedings against Mayor J. Leb Watkins may be the result of the activities displayed by the Mayor in the investigation. Dr. Winters said today that he would file charges of malfeasance in office against Mayor Watkins.

The departure of Abel came at a point in the investigation when definite action was about to be taken. Word has been received yesterday of the finding of a shovel on a farm owned by G. H. Van Matre, four miles west of the city the morning following the disappearance of Catherine Winters.

Four city policemen went to the

UNWISE TO CHARGE DR. W.A. WINTERS

This is Opinion of Detective Agency
Which Has Been Conducting Investigation in Case.

DR. WINTERS KNOWS NOTHING

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2.—Louis Wein head of the Wein detective agency under whose directing Robert H. Abel has been working on the Catherine Winters case, today said he and Abel now agreed that it was a "very foolish move to file charges against Dr. Winters," with Mrs. Winters and W. R. Cooper. He said that Dr. Winters knew nothing about the alleged murder. Abel has gone to Columbus, Ohio, but will return at once if needed in Newcastle. Abel said before leaving that he desired the first degree murder charges against the step-mother and Cooper in order that they might be given the "third degree."

National Gate Company No Sooner
Finishes One Building Until it Needs Another as Large.

PATENTS BIG IMPROVEMENT

Remaining $8,800 Worth of Stock
Will be Sold in Rush County and Business Will be Extended.

The National Gate company, a Rush county company has had its new building at the intersection of the Big Four, C. H. & D. and L. E. & W. railroads erected only a little more than a month and already plans are being considered for erecting another equally as large west of the present structure to be used for storage.

The company is now employing a number of men and has plans for enlarging that will soon make it one of the best industries in Rushville. The company is incorporated for $32,000 and there is yet $8,800 of stock unsold. L. E. Collins of Columbus, Ohio, an experienced stock salesman has arrived here and will dispose of the remaining stock in Rush county at once.

Mr. Collins will also be in charge of the establishment of the branch concerns which will be organized in other states to manufacture the gates patented by the National Gate company. It is figured that the freight rates alone in distributing all of the product from a central plant here would make it worth while to organize companies in every state in the union just as fast as possible.

Each one of the companies in all of the states will be connected with the parent company here. The stockholders of the parent company will have a certain share of the branch companies and draw dividends from them.

The company has ten patents, every one of which is an improvement over any gate now on the market and the stockholders of the company and others who have seen the comparisons between the local gate and others believe that the gate industry will be revolutionized just as soon as those made here are put on the market right.

The gate company has a system of selling which is calculated to interest every buyer of one or more of the gates. The company has what it calls a co-operative membership certificate, costing ten dollars, and in addition a gate is given with each certificate. Then any person holding such a certificate will receive any number of gates he desires at twenty per cent discount either for his own use or for the purpose of selling them. Fixtures alone may be bought under the same plan. In many instances the fixtures are sold and the farmer makes his own gate.

J. N. Neal who first was at the head of the concern which is now the National Gate company and which was known as the Peoples Gate company, had a half interest in the patents. He has sold his interest to the present organization for ten thousand dollars and has retired from the firm. When he was in charge he sold farm rights only.

The company now has three wagons going about this and adjoining counties placing the proposition to farmers. Branch agencies are being established as fast as possible, but the officers and stockholders of the concern feel that the membership certificate plan will serve their purpose best in finding a local market for the gates. of Walker's Show Herd Sold
For $225—High Price $700.

The A. L. Winship sale of imported Jersey cattle formerly the property of A. P. Walker, was held this afternoon at the Jersey Isle Stock farm west of the city. The sale embraced sixty head of fine cattle and included the show herd which has won many prizes at state fairs.

Only a fair sized crowd of foreign buyers was present and the cattle did not bring the price that was expected. Especially was this so with the bulls. Plymouth's Financial Lad, one of the prize show bulls of the Walker herd brought only $225, being sold to H. W. Clafford of Wisconsin. Plymouth's Son another of the bulls brought $220 and was sold to the Sealawn Court Farm of Lake Geneva, Wis.

The highest price that had been paid up until a late hour this afternoon was $700. This was paid for Apache Lolo a cow that won many prizes last year. The cow was sold to the Sealawn Court Farm of Lake Geneva, Wis.

John Boyd a local Jersey cattle fancier bought several fine cattle and will add them to his prize herd. Mr. Boyd purchased Oaklands Sailors Rachel, a cow which won prizes last year at the Indiana and Kentucky state fairs. He paid $410 for the animal. Mr. Boyd also bought Cowslip's Golden Finance paying $350.

The Retherford Stock farm of Muncie purchased the cow Gamboe Knight's Nixey for $475. John A. Brown of New Salem bought the heifer Gamboe's Plymouth, paying $125. The calf was a little over a year old. Financial King's Lily, the grand champion cow of the Illinois state fair in 1913 brought $150, being sold to the Scott Stock farm.

Another of the fine bulls of the herd Rozel Sultan brought $225. The bull was sold to Harry Gregg of Oxford, Ohio. The sale attracted many Rushville people but outside of Mr. Boyd not many invested. The sale of the cattle was conducted by J. V. Cotta, of Crawfordsville, Col. D. L. Perry acted as auctioneer.

MEDIATORS DENY DEADLOCK EXISTS

Also Declare Today no Word Has Been Received From Huerta as to Terms of Settlement.

AMERICANS TAKE UP MESSAGE

(By United Press.)

Niagara Falls, June 2.—Formal denial was made in a statement this afternoon by the A. B. C. mediators that a "deadlock" existed in their peace plans.

Among the mediators, the American and Mexican delegates, it was denied today that any notice had been received from General Huerta as to the terms of settlement he desired here or any word that he desired the Rebel representation in the conferences.

Justice Lamar and Judge Lehman remained on the American side throughout the morning. Early in the afternoon the mediators were understood to have under consideration a message delivered to them by Secretary Dodge of the American delegation. It was announced that the Americans would confer with the mediators at three-thirty.

All Sorts of Rumors Are in Effect
Concerning Attitude of Present
Mexican Head.

(BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD)
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Vera Cruz, June 2.—Refugees arriving here today from Mexico City told more wild tales about the movement and aims of General Huerta.

Rumors afloat in the Capital are that Huerta has left Mexico with his family by the east coast; that Huerta has escaped by the west coast; that he is not going to leave Mexico and will refuse to resign; that he already has resigned, placing his resignation in the hands of the Brazilian minister to be opened June 4 after Huerta had fled the country.

A party of leading Mexicans arriving today professed to be astonished at not finding Huerta's family and his cabinet aboard the Ypranga. "We know that Huerta's family left Mexico City by special train a week ago and that Huerta left by special train last Wednesday," they said.

CROP ROTATION SUCCESS SECRET

Diversity Makes Majority of Farms Pay Well.

IMPORTANCE POINTED OUT.

Agricultural Expert Warns Against Specializing and Makes Known His Reasons—Every Farmer Should Grow Everything That Is Needed on His Place and Not Buy Supplies.

New York.—How shall a man make farming pay, how make it return besides interest on investment a reasonable country salary of $1,000, how manage it so as to use one's time, energy and capital to best advantage? These were some of the considerations in a lecture by John H. Barron of the state department of agriculture.

"Wide studies show that usually the most profitable farms follow a diversified type of agriculture," he said. "In the state of New York forty-nine farms have been studied on which labor incomes of $2,500 or more are being made. That is, on these farms enough is made to pay all expenses and interest on the investment at 5 per cent and leave the farmer a salary of $2,500 or more. These farms sell from one to six major items, amounting to $500 or more each and in addition several minor products. The figures show that on the average there were three major and four minor sale products and besides usually some feed for farm animals. Generally then diversified farming is likely to be more profitable than specialized farming.

"Specialized farming has some advantages. It may allow the development of considerable skill in the production of one or two things. A small amount of capital may be sufficient to develop one enterprise quite efficiently, whereas it would not develop several. In specialized farming large fields can be laid out and buildings so planned as to facilitate labor greatly.

"Diversified farming has many advantages which outweigh the advantages of specialized farming, for the majority of farmers find it is better to have several important products as sources of income rather than one product. Diversification allows of a rotation of crops which is all but absolutely necessary for the permanence of any agricultural scheme; it usually forestalls total failure, for in no season is it likely that all crops will be poor; it distributes the income over the year; it stands for economy and efficiency and provides work for man, machinery and horses a greater portion of the year than does most specialized farming.

"In the establishment of a plan for diversified farming the rotation of crops must first be given attention. Most farming will get its profits from animal products and crops. The maintenance of soil fertility is of paramount importance, for without it any farm scheme is ultimately doomed to failure. It follows, then, that a good rotation will meet at least three general requirements: First, it must maintain and increase fertility; second, it will produce feeds which will nourish animals as economically as possible; third, it will furnish cash crops for sale.

"To feed animals as economically as possible a good quality of roughage must be produced. For this purpose some succulence is desirable and also the products of leguminous plants, like clover, alfalfa, peas and soy beans.

"In much of the dairy section of the state a good rotation is corn, oats, clover, timothy. The corn, oats and clover are fed on the farm and the timothy sold. Where the farm is not heavily stocked part of the area otherwise devoted to corn can be used for potatoes and then oats and hay follow the potatoes or corn in the regular fashion. This combination is usually better than the one first given, because it provides for two cash crops instead of one, but it cannot be developed too far, because corn and potatoes are competitive crops as to time of planting, cultivating and to an extent in harvesting.

"In the planning of crop schemes it is necessary to keep a good work balance, or there may be a poor distribution of work, too much at one time and not enough at another. Noncompetitive enterprises should be chosen and at the same time enterprises which have some interdependence and relation to each other. A good scheme of farming will generally have several sources of income. In a word, it may be said to consist of a well chosen line of specialties."

HELD UP BY A WOMAN.

New Yorker Hands Over $47 and Runs For the Police.

Philadelphia.—Arthur Law of New York acknowledged that he had been held up and that, after delivering his bank roll, consisting of $47, to a woman, he had fled at her command, when he appeared before a magistrate and testified against May Howard, the amazon who he said did the holding up.

Law said that he started to take a stroll and that when he reached a dark spot a woman confronted him.

"Come across with what you've got or you'll get yours," she told him. He produced the $47 and ran to the nearest police station. The police caught the woman, who was held without bail.

JACK STANDING.

"BLOOD WILL TELL." is a two part release featuring Francis Bushman. It is a drama of Colonial days and also of the present, showing the hereditary trend of a man's fickleness and a woman's indiscretion.

Jack Standing, who was a matinee idol de luxe before entering the movies, is making quite a reputation for himself and may soon enter the ranks of feature players.

Two famous transcontinental travelers who recently completed a horseback journey from New York to San Francisco, appear in the exciting two part drama, "Captured by Mexicans." The tourists are Don and Cleo Ridgely. The drama is based upon an incident which befell the Ridgeleys during their long overland journey. While crossing the Yuma desert, which is on the Mexican border line, the Ridgeleys became involved in a mixup between Mexican rebels and federals, narrowly escaping death.

SCENE FROM "BLOOD WILL TELL."

In the two part drama, "A Passover Miracle," photo play patrons will find one of the most important contributions ever made to the films which depict racial customs. This photo play was produced with the assistance of the officials of the New York Jewish community (the Kehillah), and is based upon the Jewish feast of the Passover. Every detail in this drama of the elaborate ceremony attending the celebration that is held on Passover eve is absolutely authentic.

An Alaskan government agent attempts to rob his own wife of the funds which he has left in her charge, telling her that he is going away, in "An Alaskan Interlude." The wife shoots him, not knowing who he is, but all goes well when she learns that he did it for her.

In "A Ticket to Happiness" the hired man argues the "boss" should marry. The latter agrees and captures the choice of the foreman.

One of the most dramatic and picturesque wars the world has ever known has been filmed for the edification of the motion picture patrons. The five part production, "The Boer War," gives a wonderfully realistic portrayal of the fight between the Boers and the English.

One of the unique features of this important production is that it does not attempt to take sides. The story is told with absolute fairness.

"Teaching Father a Lesson" is based on an old man who opposes his daughter's marriage, but uselessly, and she gets a house and lot in the bargain.

Ben Lindsey at Home

While Judge Ben Lindsey of Colorado is over in New York ranting about the alleged injustices that are being heaped on the miners of Colorado, his own people who know him best are passing resolutions condemning his actions.

The feeling among Colorado people who know the conditions there seems to be decidedly different from that which is spread broadcast by the yellow press. Judge Lindsey came east to get a hearing with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., but failing in that he got his name in the newspapers. The sagacious sage of Sagamore Hill refused him an audience, when he was one of the pillars of the Progressive cause in 1912. It appears that he has degenerated considerably.

The citizens of Fremont county, Colorado, recently passed a long set of resolutions denouncing the methods of the strikers and upholding the governor in his attempt to enforce the law. The people have decided that Judge Lindsey is a self-appointed leader and that he has no just right to speak for them. It is to our purpose that we quote only one paragraph which refers to Judge Lindsey. It reads:

"Resolved, That we condemn the attitude of Judge Ben Lindsey, with reference to the industrial conditions in this state, and deny the truth of his statements with respect thereto, as reported in the press and protest against his assumption of authority to speak for us, the people of this state."

The Fort Wayne News has some very apt and timely remarks which follow:

That Colonel Roosevelt last Saturday declined to receive a call from that grandstanding blatherskite, Ben Lindsey, of Denver, indicates that the colonel has not entirely taken leave of his political senses. While there are many people who still cherish the idea that Lindsey is really a philanthropist who has suffered many things for righteousness sake, the fact that he is a cheap demagogue who for some time has been com-mercializing a hypocritical service in the interest of the unfortunate. Lindsey in the past has stood for some notable forms, but always his advocacy of them has sounded high the note of self-praise, and invariably he has greedily sought to assume credit for the work of others, his attitude leaving no doubt that his activity was inspired rather by his personal interest than by his love for the cause. Here of late the man seems fairly to have slipped his trolley, and in his eagerness to keep in the limelight he has gone to desperate extremes. The message from the Denver chamber of commerce denouncing Lindsey's visit to Washington in connection with the Colorado strike as political chicanery was well put and gives expression to the best thought of Denver. From public esteem Lindsey is rapidly passing to public contempt, and this is not because he has developed new characteristics, but because people are now beginning to understand that his former championship of the unfortunate was merely a ruse to advertise himself and promote his own selfish interests.

That "Square, Firm" Jaw.

The gusto with which President Wilson recently asserted that he would not attend the Memorial Day service of the G. A. R. at Arlington cemetery in Washington and with which he declared a few weeks ago that the Clayton anti-trust measure would not be amended to exempt labor unions from the same penalties that would affect capital makes that celebrated "square, firm jaw" of his look limp and puny.

Instead of doing as he so rabidly declared he would do, President Wilson did the opposite. He attended the service for union soldiers and made a short talk. When a wave of condemnation spread over the north like wildfire, the politicians evidently made the president see that it would lose a lot of votes and the president sent broadcast the word that he would renege on his early decision because he feared his declination had been misunderstood.

But how could it be misunderstood and that's where the rub was. He gave no reason. He simply declined to attend. His only reason could have been nothing other than that he did not want to attend. But previously he had consented to speak at the unveiling of a Confederate monument in Washington. He is a southerner by instinct and by training and by birth. There was no misunderstanding on the part of the people of the north. It is doubtful if his edmoeratic congressmen in the north gained any votes by their successful attempt to cause him to consider his declination. President Wilson might better have gained the respect of the people by remaining true to his southern convictions and instincts.

And as regards labor union exemption: The house yesterday unanimously voted to exempt labor unions under the anti-trust law. President Wilson is credited with being the supreme ruler of the house and a few weeks ago he asserted labor unions would not be exempt.

STATES COULD SAVE MILLIONS

Heavy Legislative Expense Would be Done Away With by Passage of Poindexter Bill

FOR ELECTION OF SENATORS

Would Depend on Final Passage by Present Congress—Are Not in Great Hurry

(By United Press.)

Washington, June 2.—Millions of dollars in legislative expenses will be saved the various states if the Poindexter bill for the direct election of senators, or some similar measure, is enacted into law before the adjournment of the present congress, but despite the fact that the Poindexter bill has passed both houses, it is hung up in conference and no one can tell what is the prospect.

So far the conference from the two houses have not had a single meeting although it is confidently believed that neither House would be amendments to the bill. Certainly this is the opinion of Senator Poindexter, its author.

"Had I been in the chamber when the measure was brought back from the House, with these amendments," he said to a representative of the United Press today, "I should have moved to concur in the House amendments. I do not mean to say that I think the bill has been improved in the House, but I do think that the amendments are too trivial, in view of the great good in the way of economy that can be accomplished by the speedy passing of the bill, to quibble over."

"The legislatures of a score of states will have to hold special sessions if this bill is not passed, or else they run the grave chance of going without representation in the United States senate. The expense of a session of just one legislature upon its state is too well known to the taxpayers of each state to need any enlarging upon and it seems to me to be almost an act of criminal neglect to allow this measure, or one which would accomplish the same thing, to fall by the wayside."

"I am going to do all in my power to persuade the conference to get together. I have just had a talk with Chairman Rucker, of Missouri, of the House conferees, and they seem willing enough. If possible I shall see Senator Walsh, of Montana, chairman of the Senate conferees, and see if something cannot be done and at once."

"The only amendment adopted by the House which I really take exception to is that providing the act shall expire by limitation in three years. Of course, that would take care of most of the states, as it will be possible to enact laws governing the direct election of senators, and the placing of the laws of the candidates on the official ballots, in that time, so that even with this amendment the bill is a great deal better than nothing. At the same time I regard it as a slight weakening of the measure, since there is no danger of its running on forever. As soon as a state passes a law governing the election of senators, that law at once supercedes the national act, so that there cannot really be a charge that this is a violation of state rights."

"At any time the state can wipe out the effect of this law within its own borders by passing a law to take its place."

The conferees are: For the Senate: Senators Walsh, Kenyon, and Pomerene; For the House: Representatives Rucker, of Missouri, Broussard of Louisiana, and Ainey of Pennsylvania.

SAYS TRUTH NOT TOLD IN ADDRESS

Attorney Minton for Anti-Saloon

League Denies Statements of Liquor Man Made Recently

DO NOT PAY ENOUGH REVENUE

Says For Amount of Harm Saloons
Hardly Give Government Enough for Amount of Damage

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, June 2.—Attorney R. C. Minton for the Indiana Anti-Saloon league came out today with a statement in which he denied several assertions recently made by a representative of the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association. Mr. Debar, representing the liquor men, said that state and national prohibition would mean confiscation of property. Mr. Minton's statement follows:

"The recent address of Mr. Debar of the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association is either an attempt to mislead the public or shows an inexcusable ignorance on his part. Prohibition will not confiscate a dollar's worth of their property. They will still remain in absolute and undisputed possession of the same but on the other hand, would not be permitted to use it in doing certain things. It is true, they will suffer a loss in their business and their property may not be as valuable for that reason. The state has never attempted to guarantee to anyone a profitable business but has always asserted and exercised the right to limit the individual in the use of his property so that such use will not result in injury to others. Slaughter houses, fertilizer plants and other offensive businesses have been abolished without recompense for losses sustained. Why should the liquor business be more favored?"

"That statement that the government has fostered and encouraged the liquor traffic is not true. This traffic has been heavily taxed, restricted and even prohibited from the very beginning of our Nation upon the principle that it has been deemed a business dangerous to the welfare of the public. The United States Supreme court in 1847 by Judge Grier, said, 'If a loss of revenue should accrue to the United States from a diminished consumption of ardent spirits, she will be the gainer a thousand fold in the health, wealth and happiness of her people.' And again, the Supreme court of Iowa has voiced the sentiment of almost every court of our land when it declared that nothing but evil flows from the saloon. This business then has been fostered by the government in the same way that we foster the small-pox by building pest houses to care for the unfortunate."

"They parade as another argument in their behalf that they pay to the government annually two hundred fifty million in revenue. They should remember though, in considering this that they collect annually at least eight times this amount from their victims and only turn into the treasury of the government a small part of this sum. In other words, they collect annually from our people two million dollars for furnishing that which injures the health, wealth and happiness of our people and pay an eighth of this sum for the privilege of conducting this business. Becker's gang in New York levied a tax upon vice and in return granted immunity to the offenders, but if our Courts are correct in their estimate of the corrupting power and influence of the liquor traffic upon society, Becker can plead a more righteous cause than those responsible for this traffic."

IS RECALLED TODAY.

Washington, June 2.—Barely a handful of political old timers today recalled that President Garfield and Vice-President Chester A. Arthur, successor to the Presidency after Garfield's assassination, were nominated by the Republican convention at St. Louis thirty-four years ago today—June 2, 1880.

Parents and Teachers Lack Information on Processes and Results of Kindergartens

By CHARLES W. ELIOT, President Emeritus of Harvard University

I AM glad that the bureau of education is going to make a THOROUGH INQUIRY INTO THE FUNCTIONS AND MERITS OF THE KINDERGARTEN. During the past twenty years I have frequently observed among parents and teachers a lack of information about the processes and results of the kindergarten and a lack of faith in its usefulness. This state of mind may be changed by the publication of the results of a broad inquiry into the ACTUAL WORK AND FRUITS OF THE KINDERGARTENS which have already been established in many parts of the United States.

I OBSERVE WITH PLEASURE THAT THE MONTESSORI WORK AND ITS RELATION TO THE KINDERGARTEN ARE ALSO TO BE INQUIRED INTO AND HOPE THAT THE INQUIRY WILL BRING OUT THE FACTS THAT THE METHODS TO WHICH THE NAME OF MME. MONTESSORI IS NOW ATTACHED WERE INVENTED MANY YEARS AGO BY DR. EDWARD SEGUIN AND THAT THEY HAVE BEEN USED WITH UNQUESTIONABLE SUCCESS FOR AT LEAST TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AT THE MASSACHUSETTS SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE MINDED CHILDREN.

United States Army In Splendid State of Efficiency at Present Time

By Lieutenant General NELSON A. MILES of U. S. Army, Retired

I WAS an interested observer of the war in the Balkans. I was visiting my son, First Lieutenant Sherman Miles, field artillery, United States army, who is military attache at Sofia, Bulgaria. We daily heard the booming of the guns and watched the wounded being carried to the rear. It has been a tremendous conflict and one of absorbing interest to a man of military training. It was real war right straight through, and I would not have missed seeing what I did of it for anything. As I am not on the active list of the army, I did not intrude myself upon the firing line, but I was able to gain a splendid insight into the way the battles were fought and the strategy used just the same.

IN SPITE OF THE FACT THAT I HAVE BEEN RETIRED FROM ACTIVE SERVICE FOR SEVERAL YEARS, I TAKE THE SAME INTEREST IN MILITARY MATTERS I ALWAYS DID, AND IT IS A MATTER OF GREAT PLEASURE TO ME TO SEE TO WHAT A SPLENDID STATE OF EFFICIENCY THE UNITED STATES ARMY IS IN AT THE PRESENT TIME. I CANNOT NOW RECALL ANY PERIOD WHEN THE STANDING ARMY WAS SO ENTIRELY READY FOR ANY DUTY IT MIGHT BE CALLED UPON TO PERFORM.

Babies of World Brought Up by Women With Little Education

By Mrs. CHARLOTTE PERKINS GILMAN, Author and Lecturer

A "BABY GARDEN," a sort of glorified day nursery, will help to solve the problem of the kitchenless mother of the future. I know there will be a terrible hue and cry over separating the mother from her child, but I do not mean to separate them except for a few hours each day. The child would spend those hours in a SPECIALLY BUILT AND FURNISHED HOUSE, ONE TO EACH FIFTEEN OR TWENTY HOMES, WITH A HIGHLY TRAINED EXPERT. The rest of the time the baby would be with his mother.

AS IT IS NOW, THE BABIES OF THE WORLD ARE BROUGHT UP BY SERVANTS. FIFTEEN-SIXTEENTHS OF THE SERVANTS ARE THE BABIES' MOTHERS. THE OTHER SIXTEENTH ARE HIRED. BUT THE BABY'S EARLIEST ASSOCIATIONS ARE ALWAYS WITH A WOMAN OF LITTLE EDUCATION. THE MOTHER WHO CAN AFFORD IT HIRES A SUBORDINATE. I WOULD SIMPLY MAKE THAT SUBORDINATE HER EQUAL IN EDUCATION AND HER SUPERIOR IN EXPERIENCE.

ARE RALLYING TO REPUBLICAN PARTY

Old Soldiers Who Voted Progressive

Ticket in 1912 Return According to Letters Received.

ONE FROM JOEL B. GARRISON

(Special to the Daily Republican)

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2.—It is apparent from the letters that are being received at Republican state headquarters from former Progressives announcing publicly their affiliation with the Republican party, that the civil war veterans are again rallying to the support of the G. O. P. The following letter, from Joel B. Garrison of Hendricks county, is typical:

"I want to see the Republicans unite under the Eagle. That is the only way we can do effective work against the Democrat party."

"I have been a Republican all my life and am a believer in the policies of the Republican party. I was a soldier in the civil war and marched with Sherman to the sea. I voted for Roosevelt in 1912 not because Taft was a protectionist, but because I thought he wasn't."

WALKER NOW IN CHARGE OF TEAM

Takes Over Interest of George Murphy and With Fisher Will Continue With Arcadians.

TO GIVE FANS BETTER BALL
Few Changes in Lineup For Game Sunday With Connersville—Large Crowd Coming.

A change in the management and ownership of the Arcadians was announced today. Under the arrangement John Walker one of the owners takes over the interest of George Murphy. Mr. Walker and Dale Fisher will continue to manage the team and will make an effort to give the fans the usual high class attractions. Hereto-fore there has been too many connected with the team and the change was made in the hopes of bettering conditions.

The Arcadians meet their old rivals Connersville Sunday. Connersville has one victory over Rushville this season and the Rushville team is going to even up the score. A few changes will be made in the lineup and Manager Fisher is confident that his boys will turn the trick. Patterson or Link will do the pitching. Bridges will be back on first base. With Bridges on first the infield should be greatly strengthened. O'Dell will be placed in the outfield and a new third baseman will be on the job. Manager Fisher is after a good man and hopes to be able to land him. Quisser will be in center field.

Manager Remington of the Connersville team will bring the same team here Sunday that defeated Rushville two weeks ago. He has chartered three special cars and is preparing to bring a great crowd. The largest crowd of the season is expected and a real game is looked for. Patterson is confident that he will win from Connersville and will more than likely be given the chance.

OLD RIVALS IN WIND UP GAME

Purdue and Indiana Meet in Final Game of Season on Jordan Field—Odds on I. U.

FINISHES THIRD IN THE RACE
Jumped From Seventh to This Place in One Week in Conference Standing of Teams

(By United Press.)

Bloomington, Ind., June 2.—In the wind up game of the entire Big Nine race, Indiana and Purdue, rivals in every form of collegiate activity for a generation, cross bats on Jordan Field this afternoon. All dope decidedly favors the Crimson nine. In one week Indiana has jumped from seventh to third place in the Conference race, her berth at the wind up last season.

Carl Schultz twirls for the Crimson today, and close critics of the Big Nine are almost unanimous in awarding him high honors for the season in the department. Every game this year he deserved to win with decent support, and the walk-away that I. U. enjoyed last week when they romped away with Illinois Conference leaders and unbeaten for the season, indicates that he will get support today. I. U. seems to have at least hit her batting stride, the one factor that has held her from Conference honors. The Crimson Sluggers knocked three Sucker twirlers from the box in their last game—the renowned Gunlea among them.

Dope on the Boilermakers is not quite so favorable. With their ninth inning victory over Indiana in the middle of the season, it seemed that the Lafayette lads would repeat their football and track victories and crow over the Crimson in all branches. But the double defeat of the Boilermakers at the hands of Chicago last week, and both decided trimmings at that, lowered Purdue's stock below par.

It is I. U.'s first contest since their astounding victory over Illinois at 13 to 2, the drubbing that sent the Conference leaders to within striking distance of Chicago. Perhaps as astonished themselves as the local fans were, the nine has taken a decided brace and in yesterday's practice showed ginger enough to satisfy even the unsatisfied "Cotton" Berndt.

I wish to thank all of my friends in their generous support which they gave me in the recent piano contest conducted by the Hogsett store.

DOINGS IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

First Trial Races For America's Cup In June.

LONG ISLAND SOUND COURSE

Also Races Will Be Held on the International Course Off Sandy Hook. Preparing Now For Amateur Golf Championship—J. E. Sullivan Names Olympic Committee.

Satisfied that their course will meet every requirement of a championship test, the officials of the Ekwanok Country club of Manchester, Vt., will make but few alterations for the national amateur golf tournament, which is to be held there from Aug. 31 to Sept. 5. The changes that will be noted by regulars at the well known mountain resort are indeed those that have been going on or in contemplation since last season. They consist of two new greens at the first and seventh holes and several new tees, all of which will add considerably to the length of the round.

James L. Taylor and those in charge of the arrangements are taking a very sensible view of this matter. They point out that with few exceptions the foremost golfers of the country have played at Ekwanok; therefore they will try to keep the course as it has been known to those players during recent visits.

A tentative schedule has been arranged by the owners and managers of the three cup defenders and the several yacht clubs which gives the three yachts twenty-five races exclusive of those during the New York Yacht club cruise and such trials as may be necessary after that cruise has ended. It is possible that this schedule may be rearranged and that it may be necessary to select other dates for the races now scheduled for the early part of June.

According to the present arrangement the first races will be June 2, 3 and 4. These are to be under the auspices of the New York Yacht club and are to be sailed on the Sound. The starting point will be off Great Captain's island, which is near Greenwich, Conn. That point has been chosen by the regatta committee of the New York Yacht club because it enables the committee to select a good course, which may be fifteen miles to windward and return should the wind be from a favorable direction, or around a triangle of ten miles to a leg. Should these distances be impossible the course may be shortened and sailed twice over. The starting point and the probable courses are settled, but it is possible that the three yachts may not be quite ready for racing at that time. In such an event the dates will be changed. There is no idea now that they will not be ready, but it is hard to predict what may happen when they begin sailing and there may be some delays in getting them away from the builders' yards.

The next race is scheduled for the Larchmont (N. Y.) Yacht club on June 6, and after that the three yachts will take part in three races outside Sandy Hook under the auspices of the New York Yacht club. The dates for these three are June 10, 11 and 12, and the courses will be the same as for the international races and under the same conditions as far as possible. These courses will be fifteen miles to windward or leeward and return and around a thirty mile triangle, with one leg, the first if possible, ten miles to windward. The starts will be made from the Ambrose channel lightship in New York bay.

James E. Sullivan, secretary of the American Olympic committee, has announced the names of the committee men who will work for the next Olympic team. There are about 120 men on the committee, representing prominent figures in all sports in every part of the United States. There are sixty vice presidents, all of whom are known in business and other circles. A few of the most noted are Vincent Astor, August Belmont, Andrew Carnegie, George J. Gould, Clarence H. Mackay, J. P. Morgan, Theodore Roosevelt, Thomas F. Ryan, William H. Taft, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, John D. Rockefeller, Rodman Wanamaker and General Leonard Wood.

James E. Sullivan is chairman of the team selection committee, which also consists of the men identified with sports throughout the country to the number of fifty. There will be little active work for this committee, the work of preparation devolving in the meantime on the following executive committee:

Colonel Robert M. Thompson, Washington, chairman; Allison V. Armour, Chicago; Edward E. Babb, Boston; Everett C. Brown, Chicago; Julian W. Curtiss, New York; Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, New York; Matthew P. Halpin, New York; Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, New York; Gustavus T. Kirby, New York; Alfred J. Lill, Jr., Boston; Joseph B. Macabee, Boston; Dr. G. R. Manning, William H. Page, New York; Frederick B. Pratt, Brooklyn; Professor William M. Sloane, New York; James E. Sullivan, New York; Justice Bartow S. Weeks, New York; Evert Jansen Wendell, New York.

In spite of the fact that racing has passed through a number of extremely lean years, there is plenty of evidence that those most directly interested are hopeful of better conditions in the near future. Enough trainers and jockeys have applied for and received licenses thus far this year to make a respectable showing, worthy of the days when racing held the boards without intermission from early in the spring until late in the fall.

No fewer than 155 trainers received credentials at the most recent meeting of the Jockey club. While dozens of these will undoubtedly appear in the additional role of owner, the list contains the names of many veteran handlers of the thoroughbred.

In the matter of jockeys, too, the eastern turf will be well supplied. Sixty-six of these, veterans and budding talent, have received official recognition, including practically all the riders with whom the followers of the sport became familiar during the abbreviated season of 1913.

The fitting out of another American sander yacht fleet, three boats of which will be selected the coming summer for the international races at Kiel in 1915, already has begun in the shipyards of Salem bay, Massachusetts.

Ten or twelve boats, it is expected, will line up for the trial races, which will be held off there by the Eastern Yacht club, probably during the third week in August.

The international races for the sander at Kiel next year will be the sixth series between America and Germany and the third to be sailed in the waters of the latter country. The series now stands four to one in favor of America.

Among the American boats which it is expected will compete in the trials, with their owners, are:

Chance, C. A. Wood; Cima, Guy Lowell; Durina, F. M. Hoyt; Ellen, C. P. Curtis; Panther, Caleb Loring; Sprig, John L. Saltoustaill; Tern, Commodore E. M. Sears.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or Bladder troubles you—Salts is fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE NEW SPORT COSTUMES ARE PRACTICAL AS WELL AS PLEASING.

For genuine comfort in out-of-door sports one must dress the part. It is quite natural to choose a light green, or vivid scarlet for these sport costumes and materials are heavy but light weight; tweeds, homespuns, vicuna and coverts. Vivid sweaters of wool and silk are worn with these heavy skirts and sports coats of reversible stuffs, pocketed and strapped in most approved fashion. Even in Paris this fad for the "Costume Sport," as they call it, has taken a firm hold; no wardrobe is complete without one, even if it only serves the purpose of making its wearer look picturesque. The coat shown in 8130-8212 is fashioned of bright green corduroy and worn with a skirt of white cotton sponge. Raglan shoulders, a wide stitched belt and large patch pockets are features of this model. The skirt (8212) is a two-piece design with slightly raised waistline and straight, well-cut lines. This coat may be made in size 36, with 3 1/2 yards of 42-inch material; 3 3/4 yards of the same width is needed for the skirt.

Another attractive model in a sport coat, showing a kimono shoulder instead of the raglan, is displayed in Number 8128; this coat is developed in a reversible wool corduroy, bisect-colored outside and white inside. By way of novelty this coat has patch pockets attached to the wide belt. This coat may be made in size 36 with 4 1/4 yards of 42-inch material.

Miss Clorine Amos of Noble township visited with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Chew several days last week.

M. H. Fielding was checked out last Saturday, having been connected with the postoffice for nearly 18 years. A. H. Fielding, his father was postmaster quite a while. Then the son was a rural mail carrier. When M. H. Fielding was made postmaster, his father's health was such that he was unable to attend to it at all times. Mrs. M. H. Fielding has been assistant postmaster for some time. Daniel Geise who becomes the postmaster now has most successful officers to follow. We trust he will be equal to the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Combs entertained a young woman from Elwood for several days last week.

To the Merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during Change of Life.

Westbrook, Me. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and had pains in my back and side and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends and give you permission to publish my testimonial." — Mrs. LAWRENCE MARTIN, 12 King St., Westbrook, Maine.

Manston, Wis. — "At the Change of Life I suffered with pains in my back and loins until I could not stand. I also had night sweats so that the sheets would be wet. I tried other medicine but got no relief. After taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use for six months. ARE PLANNING ADDITION NOW

A comparison is made at the factory here with the only competitor in the wooden gate line. The comparison is very much to the advantage of the local gate. It is not braced as well, nor has it adjustable hinges. This is an improvement recently patented by the local concern which makes it possible to work the gate up and down at the unbinged end in a leverage of sixteen inches. This is so that the adjustment may be made to prevent sagging.

The wooden gate which is the nearest competitor of the Rushville gate is call a non-sag. But officers of the company here point out that it is the post which sags and causes the gate to sag. This can not be overcome without the adjustable hinge, which the Rushville gate has. Furthermore the Rushville gate is braced with iron so that its frame will withstand hard jolts. The other gate is braced with iron, but not in such a way to make it as stable as the gate built here.

R. T. Valkenburg the inventor of the gates, says that he was asked by a stockholder of the company if some stiff competition could not be expected from the iron gates. He said it could not because iron gates can not stand the wear wooden gates can. This stockholder related this to Will H. McMillin, who is also a stockholder. He confirmed the statement. He said that he bought 14 iron gates four years ago and expected them to last him the remainder of his life, but that they are practically out of commission now.

The wooden gate company which makes the non-adjustable hinge gate has been in business six or seven years and now has an output of fifteen hundred gates a week. This was cited today by officers of the company to make plain the possibilities of the local company which has a great improvement over the nearest competitor in the wooden gate line.

The gates are made of pine, spruce and cyprus according to the price charged for them. The adjustable hinge gate is made with iron braces and uprights or with iron braces and wooden upright as desired. The iron brace is always used because it is found that where a wooden brace is used and fitted down to the bottom of the upright, water always runs down the brace and collected where the two pieces meet. Thus what appears to be the strongest place in the gate is the weakest because that is where the gate always rots first.

The lumber for the gates is bought in car load lots and is dipped in creosote paint and allowed to dry before it is made into gates. The steel is bought at Pittsburg in car load lots and the malleable iron fixtures are made at Marion, Ind. The Maryland gate runs on a wheel which works in a ball and socket and allows it to be opened in either direction. The wheel may be run in between any two planks on the gate so that it can be operated at any height from the ground desired.

The persons now owning stock in the concern are: John S. Davis, A. M. McGinnis, Sherman Oneal Albert W. Winship, Charles A. Frazee, William H. McMillin, George W. Campbell, William A. Mull, Albert J. Kuhn, R. T. Valkenburg, G. A. Looney Jas. C. Adams and Michael Kney. Mr. Davis is president Mr. Mull vice-president, Mr. Winship treasurer and Mr. Frazee secretary and manager.

A Decade In Transit
By ALICE T. BURGE

What a receptacle for miscellaneous articles are books! When one closes a book he or she—most probably she—will take up almost anything to mark the place. Then, too, things that may be well preserved find their way between the leaves of volumes. Flowers, photographs, old letters, bits of paper of all kinds, may be shaken out of books.

One day one Joseph Werner, a man of thirty, strolled into a library to nose about among the volumes on the shelves. He was a scholarly fellow, and the books he sought were such as few persons cared for. Passing a shelf marked "History," he took down a copy of "Josephus," an eminent Jewish historian, who wrote during the first century of the Christian era. Turning over the leaves, he came upon an unfinished letter written in a woman's hand. The words "Dear Joe" caught his eye, and since his name was Joe he was interested. Glancing at the date, he saw that ten years had passed since the letter had been written.

He pictured in his mind the history of the volume from the day the letter had been placed in it. A girl was writing to a man. Some one entered the room whom she did not wish to see the letter. "Josephus" was lying open on a table. She placed the letter in the book and closed it. Either she had forgotten it or had been called away and never saw it again. The volume with the letter in it had found its way into the library, where it may not have been opened up to the present time.

While Werner was dreaming about the letter he was looking at the bibliography. It reminded him of writing that he had seen long ago. It was all very vague, but there was something inexpressibly tender connected with it. He glanced down to see who was the writer, but since it was unfinished there was no signature.

His mind drifted back to a period about the time the letter was written. Perhaps it was an association with the handwriting. He was then entering upon his first, and thus far his only, love. How delightful that grad and fusion of two young hearts! Loving was as natural as breathing. Then came the serious part. He was about to go away to fight on the world's battlefield for a living—a competence, a fortune. He had spoken his love, which was returned, but the girl must have time to think about it. She was farseeing and thought it unwise to engage herself to one who had not yet even made a start. She would let him know before he went away. But he did not hear from her.

While thus reverting to the past his eyes were fixed on the letter. He read without knowing that he was reading. The writer evidently was giving to a lover an answer such as he had hoped to receive.

Leaving the volume on the shelf, he took the letter to a window, where he could get a clearer view of the handwriting. It looked more familiar than before. Gradually a belief came to him that the letter had been written to him. He remembered the date that he had left home, and that on the letter was the day before his going. As he looked and continued to look the old familiar hand came back to him. There was no mistaking it. The letter had been written—not finished—to him. But it had never been sent.

Why? Ah! There was the mystery. The letter went into Werner's pocket instead of the volume in which it had been inclosed. He knew where the writer lived, though he had not seen her since he parted with her a decade ago. He determined to go to her for an explanation.

They stood face to face. Each recognized the other. He drew the letter from his pocket and handed it to her. She looked at it in wonder, recognizing it, but evidently being dazed at holding it in her hands.

"How did you come by this?" she asked.

He related to her the strange happening by which he and the letter had drifted to the library and met there. Her memory seemed to be confused in part, though as to writing the letter it was clear.

"I wrote this," she said, "the day before you left us. Mother suspected that something was between us and had advised that we remain each free until you were able to marry. Nevertheless I resolved to answer you in the affirmative. While I was writing I heard mother coming. A book—I don't remember what book—lay open on the table near me. I put the unfinished letter in it and closed it."

"Mother asked me what I was going to do about you, and I gave her an evasive answer. She drew a promise from me to take no action without notifying her. I was but seventeen and uncertain what to do; therefore I did nothing. The letter remained in the book, where I had placed it. When we gave up housekeeping, leaving our home, we sold our books to a dealer. How it came into the library where you found it I can't imagine unless the library bought it from the dealer."

"Your mother, who was present," he said, "I being absent, made up your mind for you then; it behooves me, who am now present, to make it up for you now. Let us consider this letter finished, signed, sealed and sent. Nothing remains but to make up for lost time."

And they did.

HAD HARD TIME WITH GAMBLERS

General Funston Has Quite a Tussle With This Fraternity at First in Vera Cruz.

FIRST GIVEN PERMISSION Has Been Rule For Years Under Mexicans as a Concession—Paid 4,000 Pesos a Month.

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Vera Cruz, Mexico, May 15:—(By Mail to New York)—It was a husky little tussle that Gen. Funston had with the gamblers of Vera Cruz. In the first place, the gamblers are crafty Spaniards, who found it an easy matter to mislead the minor military authorities. Before Funston was aware of it, two of his subordinates Col. Plummer, the provost general, and Capt. Bamford, the chief of Police, had given permission to the gamblers to resume their business.

It was the newspaper correspondents from Mexico City who were familiar with Mexican customs, that first made General Funston aware of the mistake which Plummer and Bamford had made.

Plummer and Bamford had been instructed not to interfere more than necessary with the mixed customs of Mexico, in their government of Vera Cruz, and so, when they were assured by the Spanish gamblers that open gambling was a fixed custom in Mexico they immediately gave the holders of the gambling concession permission to open their places.

The correspondents from the Mexican capital, however, knew otherwise. They were aware that Huerta, even in his desperate need for money, had held off until last January before he would agree to sell gambling concessions, saying, "Gambling is the worst thing that I can inflict on Mexico."

For many years open gambling and the sale of gambling concessions had been prohibited in Mexico and the correspondents were aware that it was with great reluctance that the sorely pressed Huerta finally turned to the sale of gambling concessions for funds.

As soon as the correspondents saw the gambling houses running full tilt under the American military rule, they took the matter up with Provost General Plummer.

"Yes," answered Plummer, "I have permitted the man who holds the gambling concession here to open up his houses again. He helped the marines greatly with information when they first landed here and if we let him run he will see that gambling is confined only to his own places. In that way we can regulate gambling."

One correspondent, however, went to Captain Bamford, the military chief of police and said to him:

"How much are the gamblers paying for running their places in Vera Cruz?"

"Well," he answered, "We found that they were paying the city government four thousand pesos a month and the state government eight thousand pesos a month, the latter for military purposes. We're going to let the city government take its share and then we'll have the eight thousand pesos a month to spend for military purposes in Vera Cruz."

"But this is payday night in the fleet," suggested the correspondent, "and the soldiers are losing their money at roulette and monte bank and craps."

"Better than spending it for booze," said the captain. "A soldier without money is the best soldier and the sooner they rid themselves of their money the better." The next move of the correspondent "uplifter" was to go to General Funston.

"What about the provost general taking money for military purposes from the gamblers?" asked a correspondent.

"What do you mean?" asked Funston.

The correspondent explained. "Blankety, blank, blank, blank," shouted Funston, "I didn't know that was going on. I'll stop it right away."

No one knows for publication, what Funston told the misled Colonel Plummer and the erring military chief of police, but gambling stopped immediately.

MURDER TERM OF COURT OPENS

Several Important State Cases on Docket in Monroe County Including Two Murder Cases

SEVERAL BLIND TIGER CASES

Effort Being Made to Give Bill Hayes an Early Trial Because of Feeling Against Him

(By United Press.)

Bloomington, Ind., June 2.—Judge James B. Wilson this morning opened the "murder term" of Circuit Court here, with six weeks of important cases facing him on the docket. Two murder cases of state wide interest, one charge of assault with intent to kill, and a large number of "tiger" cases are the most important on the slate.

Prosecutor Barelay is exhausting every method of squeezing the case against "Bill" Hayes onto the slate this week, in response to popular demand that he have quick trial and punishment if found guilty.

Local authorities were for a time in fear of a repetition of the "white-capping" that has made Monroe county infamous, as result of popular feeling against Hayes, who admits that a week ago yesterday he assaulted 60-year-old Tom Breedlove with a pair of brass "knucks" and pounded him insensible. Mrs. Breedlove also charged him with assault, both encounters arising over an argument that followed when Hayes' machine struck the Breedlove cow. It is partly to allay popular feeling that the case is being rushed through this week.

The one other case that is attracting attention is the first court hearing of Thomas Hardin, charged with double murder. It has been set for June 17. Hardin's attorneys busily raking through family bibles and old Monroe county records in an effort to establish proof that Hardin's parents and grand parents were subject to mental unbalance. This is the thin thread by which they will try to save their client from the penalty for firing seven shots through his wife's body and four through her mother's last March, killing both of them.

Appropriate Habiliment FOR SUMMER

It's worthy, interesting, charming, our showing of beautiful waists and blouses—an exploitation of 1914 styles too pleasing to miss. In matters of taste first impressions are best. One "learns to like" things for style's sake, sometimes, but what one likes at sight usually proves a lasting satisfaction. Our blouses this season are winning high regard not only for semi-dress, but for afternoon or evening wear. To be appropriately and neatly clad, choose liberally from our large assortment of dainty and sheer wash waists or the more ornate silk, lace or chiffon blouses. As a soloist utterly fails without a good accompanist, so does a beautiful blouse fail to show its worth unless supplemented by a neatly tailored skirt. The pre-shrunk wash skirts, made in the Wooltex factory are receiving the attention that they merit. There are many models, and a wide range of materials and prices. Don't neglect seeing them at your first opportunity.

Auto Accessories

You might as well be without a spark plug, as to be without a suitable coat for protecting your clothes when auto driving. We are showing several styles, and cannot fail to interest you. A splendid assortment, too of auto hats, caps, helmets, veils and scarfs. Several of the tourists on their way through to the Speedway last week thought so well of our offering that they purchased the complete outfit. We can please you as well.

Van Matre farm to investigate. The "shovel" was a scoop shovel that had belonged to the Lake shore and Michigan Southern Railroad.

The "mound of earth" was found to be a hole washed out of the land in the center of a cornfield when the Blue River rose and overflowed the field a year ago.

Excavations were made near the hole but only stones and an old sock were found. The sock had belonged to Robert Mann, an employee.

There will be no further investigation by the Police Department.

Prosecutor Myers in explaining his failure to file the affidavits against Mrs. Winters and Cooper which had been prepared by Abel, said he wished more time to go over the evidence submitted by the detective. He said he had not refused to file the charges.

"The resignation of Detective Abel," said the prosecutor "does not necessarily conclude present nor preclude further investigations of the case."

Abel, shortly before leaving here for Indianapolis where he said he would remain for a week, declared that he had discovered evidence tending to show that a box had been shipped to Cooper at a town near Decatur, Ill., the second day following the disappearance of Catherine on March 20, 1913. He said he had intended going to Illinois to follow up the clue.

UP TO ELLINGHAM

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, June 2.—John A. Lapp, director of the Indiana Bureau of Legislative Information, said today that he had looked into the matter of placing the names of candidates for the U. S. Senate on the ballot. He said there was no provision for or against this, and that in his opinion it rested entirely in the discretion of the secretary of state. He believed that Secretary of State Ellingham could place the names on the ballot without being empowered so to do either by the state or the nation.

Mother: See these Vanta Baby Garments

(Recommended by Baby Welfare Experts and Nurses)

Let nothing prevent you from seeing these new idea, pinless, buttonless baby garments demonstrated in our infant's department. Blood poisoning comes from pin scratches. Bruises and even carbuncles are caused by hard buttons. Vanta Garments have a neat, handy little tape fastening, made of the famous Vanta Twistless Tape instead of dangerous pins and buttons. This new tape is different than any you ever saw. It's woven so it can't get hard or stringy, curl up or kink in the wash. The fastening is made a permanent part of the garment—guaranteed never to pull off. It's far easier—far quicker to handle than pins and buttons—and never gets lost or needs replacing.

See Vanta Baby Garments with these new fastenings. See how they fasten in front—how you can dress baby without turning him and in quarter the time. They are being demonstrated today in our Infant's Department. Come and see them for baby's sake.
